STOCKHOLDERS WERE DECEIVED

Judge Collier in Indianapolis Court Names Receiver For Auto Insurance Company of America.

BOND IS FIXED AT $100,000

Court Holds That Evidence Introduced Shows That Facts in Case Were Misunderstood.

Yesterday in Indianapolis Judge Collier held that the stockholders of the Automobile Insurance Company of America, much stock in which was sold in Rushville and Rush county, had been deceived, and appointed an Indianapolis man as receiver. The final hearing on the petition for a restraining order will be given later. The Indianapolis Star says:

Stating he believed the evidence showed that a majority of the stockholders of the Automobile Insurance Company of America were deceived by the notices of the annual meeting sent out by President David M. Parry, Judge Collier in Superior Court, Room 2, yesterday named John M. Hall, 437 North Capitol avenue, receiver of the company. The receiver's bond was fixed at $100,000. He qualified later. It is probable the case will be appealed. Owing to its nature, if appealed, it will be given preference in the higher court and a decision will be rendered in a few months.

Judge Collier reviewed the evidence and said the stockholders evidently were led to believe the company was in good condition and would be in shape to begin active business soon after the annual meeting. When the stockholders arrived in Indianapolis or sent their proxies to D. M. Parry, the actual conditions were disclosed to be quite the opposite.

Judge Collier called attention to the evidence that Dr. Orion S. Miller, the plaintiff, was told the stockholders would receive dollar for dollar by the deal whereby the Federal Union Surety Company took over the Automobile Insurance Company, when, in reality, if the insurance company had been dissolved and the money invested returned to the stockholders, they could have bought in open market shares of the Federal Company at $35 less a share than that agreed upon between W. T. Durbin and D. M. Parry.

Before Judge Collier appointed a receiver the defense submitted a proposition to the plaintiff by which it agreed to turn over to a trustee selected by the plaintiff the cash, notes and mortgages assigned to the Federal Union Surety Company to prevent it from handling the assets delivered to it remains in effect until the final hearing on that question.

THERE'S A REASON FOR IT

Why Criminal Cases Have Not Been Tried in Circuit Court.

Prosecutor John C. Cheney, who was at Rushville Monday, was not able to reach an agreement with the attorneys representing Dennis Ryan and Fred Clevenger as to when the cases against them should be called for trial says the Shelbyville Democrat. Clevenger and Ryan were indicted by the grand jury on a gambling charge and their cases have been pending for some time. Both are well known in this city, where they have visited frequently in the past.

AUTOS WILL DELIVER.

It was glad some tidings that trickled in over the wire this morning when Elmer Caldwell, local agent for the Regal automobile, called the Daily Republican office and said that he would gladly donate the use of one of his machines Saturday afternoon to assist in delivering the Santa Claus fund gifts. John A. Tittsworth was the next to call up and proffer the use of his automobile to help distribute the packages. At least two more machines could be used easily so that the work could be done in a very short time, if the Good Samaritans will come forward with the offer.

BANK IS MOVED ACROSS STREET

But Falmouth Institution Must Get Permit to Transfer From Fayette to Rush County.

ON THIS SIDE OF LINE NOW

The bank of Falmouth moved across the street yesterday, but it was necessary to get a certificate from Auditor of State W. H. O'Brien in Indianapolis to do so. When the bank was incorporated last April it was unable to get a room on the Rush county side of the principal street of Falmouth. The bank opened temporary quarters in a lodge room on the Fayette county side of the line. The State banking laws, under which the institution was incorporated, required a certificate to move from one county to the other. The certificate was issued by Harry L. Arnold, bank clerk in the auditor of State's office. Fred Lightfoot is president of the Bank of Falmouth, and Fred I. Barrows, former mayor of Connersville, is vice president. The capital is $10,000.

POST CARD FAD STILL GROWING

Every Holiday Sees More And Postoffice Clerks Groan Under Heavy Christmas Rush.

RED CROSS SEALS FREELY USED

The post card fad which was started a few years ago, continues to grow until it now has assumed immense proportions. Every holiday sees more of them sent and the post cards now make up a large part of every incoming and outgoing mail. At the local postoffice hundreds of them are handled daily and the number can hardly be estimated at Christmas time.

The postoffice work is growing heavy now, especially outgoing mail and packages. The clerks are all handling it well, however, and the fact that people are becoming educated to the fact that it is necessary for them to wrap and tie the packages well before starting them on their way to friends. The packages that are being sent, show a free use of the Red Cross seals by local people.

BLAND BLONDE MEETS DEFEAT

Original "Alias Man" Must Languish Behind Bars in Frankfort Jail Until January 9.

WHEN TRIAL WILL BE HELD

Arrested There For Working Scheme Which He Attempted Here and Met With Failure.

A lot of people have held up their hands and cried, "Enough but there is one more chapter in the 'alias man's' life which should be unfolded. Over at Frankfort, he is gazing from behind the bars, but evidently the turkey can not hear his clever pleas to give a small dish of daylight.

It has developed that he was arrested in Frankfort for working successfully a scheme, which he attempted here and at several other cities in this section of the state. All of the papers here were wise enough not to "bite" on the proposition and he dropped with a heavy thud. A special dispatch to the Indianapolis Sun from Frankfort says:

A. L. Young, alias Arthur L. Ferris, Arthur L. Fayers, P. B. Ackers and G. J. Jones rests in jail here after a varied career. He is about eleven different kinds of criminal if reports and indications are not deceptive.

His hair is fair and his smile is childlike and bland. His specialty is to be always up and doing. He did in Rushville, Newcastle, Indianapolis and Frankfort. Here in Frankfort his specialty was taking orders for printing. Many orders were turned in for merchants who consented to a letter head with their own insignia on the front and a list of the firms in business here on the back. Many orders were found to be forgeries.

In Rushville he specialized on talk. He talked his way into credit at a hotel, then started to jump the bill. He talked his way into the good graces of the court, talked his way out of a fine, talked his way into a loan and bought a railroad ticket out of town. He was caught at Anderson going east.

The exact nature of his offense in New Castle and Indianapolis is now known, but the police of both places have expressed a desire to get him on the inside looking out.

According to the combined testimony of those who met him, what's his name was well starched, wore his hair smooth, was smooth shaven and smooth talkin'.

He will be tried in Frankfort, January 9.

WILL OBSERVE XMAS DAY

Glenwood M. E. Church Will Have a Fitting Program Sunday.

Christmas day will be fittingly celebrated in the Glenwood M. E. church on Sunday. In the morning at 10:45 the pastor, the Rev. C. S. Black, will preach the Christmas sermon, and in the evening at 7:30, the Sunday school will conduct a Christmas festival. An old fashioned Christmas tree will adorn the church, and a bright program of songs, recitations and exercises will be rendered. All are cordially invited to be present.

MANY REGISTERED LETTERS.

The postoffice is just now doing a very large business in the matter of registered letters, and not all of them are on account of Christmas being close at hand.

ANNOUNCE AN ALL WEEK INSTITUTE

Programs of Interest to Farmers Will be Given in Rush County Towns January 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7.

NOTED SPEAKERS ON PROGRAM

Last Two Days' Session Will be Held in Court House Here—Saturday is Ladies' Day.

Institutes to be held all over Rush county have been announced for the first week in January. The first one will be held on Tuesday and one will be held every day all the remainder of the week. On Tuesday the first one will take place at Carthage, when both morning and afternoon sessions will be held. On Wednesday, the institute will be held at Falmouth, both morning and afternoon. On Thursday the scene of the program will be changed to Manilla. On Friday and Saturday, a two days' session will be held in the court house here. Profitable as well as entertaining programs have been arranged in each instance.

From a brief glance at the program it is easily seen that a farmer's time would not be wasted by attending all of the sessions during the week. Joe P. Prigg, an authority on farming, will deliver lectures at all of the institutes. All of his subjects will be on practical farming and will no doubt prove a benefit to all agriculturalists.

In all of the programs a good many musical numbers are interspersed, which will insure days of pleasure for those who may attend. Besides the speakers from a distance, a number of Rush county farmers will tell what they know about practical farming. Notable among the number of talks to be made is one by T. A. Coleman on "Improvements of Highways."

The Manilla institute stands out prominently among the rest by reason of the fact that an extensive premium list has been prepared. Goods by Manilla business men and merchants as well as cash prizes are offered for the best yellow corn, best white corn, best mixed corn, sweepstakes on corn, best potatoes, best butter and best bread.

The Rushville institute will no doubt prove more interesting than all of the rest as a more extensive program has been prepared. The last day will be known as ladies' session, when the entire program will be devoted to the women. "Planning Housework" by Miss Berry, instructor in domestic science in Purdue University, will be one of the interesting numbers on the program. A number of local women will be on for talks and discussions.

WILL GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Hazle Lytle, Instructor of Music to Present Cantata.

A Christmas cantata entitled "King Winter," will be given Friday night by the Manilla high school glee club, at the Trees opera house. It will be under the direction of Miss Hazle Lytle of this city, who is the instructor of music in the county schools. Miss Lytle is planning to give similar concerts in the other schools, including Moscow, Raleigh, New Salem and Homer.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight followed by increasing cloudiness and probably rain or snow by Thursday. Rising temperature.

GIFTS ON DISPLAY.

Take a peek into the Winship room, where the Carmichael dry goods store was located, if you would know what good the money from the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund will do. The array of presents are spread out on the counters in all their splendor. Brown-eyed and blue-eyed brother and sister dollies stand side by side, each overflowing with the Christmas smile. Wheel barrows, story books, noise-making apparatus of all sizes and descriptions, garden sets, games, tin horns, printing sets, blocks and innumerable toys for the boys abound. For the girls are washing and ironing sets, coffee grinders, doll cabs, story books, pictures and trinkets of most every kind and description that man has ever invented. The packers were busy today sorting the presents and arranging them ready for packing into sacks and tying which will be done Friday afternoon.

COUNCIL NAMES LIBRARY MEMBERS

Mrs. J. W. Moore and B. F. Miller Will Serve—Allowed the Usual Claims.

NO BUSINESS OF IMPORTANCE

The city council met in regular session last night. Great interest was shown in whom the council would elect to serve on the library committee. They named Mrs. J. W. Moore and B. F. Miller as the two who should represent the city. The usual number of claims were allowed and the councilmen given some Christmas money. No business of importance came before the council and they adjourned to meet with water and light superintendent. A. T. Mahin, as a committee of the whole.

AGED MAN DIES VERY SUDDENLY

William T. Smith, 66 Years Old of Arlington Found Dead by Daughter, Sitting in Chair.

SURVIVED BY FOUR CHILDREN

William T. Smith of Arlington was found dead yesterday afternoon about four-thirty o'clock by his daughter, Miss Bertha Smith.

She had been over to some of their neighbors visiting and was gone perhaps an hour. When Miss Smith returned she found her father dead in a chair. He had probably been dead nearly an hour. Coroner A. G. Shauck was summoned and pronounced his death due to natural causes.

Mr. Smith was 66 years old and had suffered from heart trouble for several years. He is survived by four children, Bertha, Elmer and John of Arlington, and Bert, who is in Missouri.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the home, conducted by the Rev. A. R. Jones. Burial will take place at the Arlington East Hill cemetery.

Total $129.96

If the "Good Fellows" had been more prevalent today, it is not unlikely that the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund would have risen to the $150 mark even before the end of the week. One "Good Fellow" gave the fund a big boost and it is hoped that many more will do likewise as there are many more children this year than last, when $152.32 was raised. The managers of the fund have every reason to believe that the fund will pass $150 before Saturday, as there are yet two days in which subscriptions may be made and the penny boxes are yet to be added to the amount.

Today's the last day for the penny boxes on the street corners—until next year, when they will again take their stand for the Santa Claus fund. It is believed that they will easily yield as much this year as they did last. They will be taken off the streets tonight, opened and the amount added to the fund tomorrow.

So far the highest bid on the beautiful brass set in the Hargrove and Mullin drug store window, which was donated to the Santa Claus fund by Louis Thatcher of the Rushville Art Brass Company, remains three dollars. It is to be hoped that the bid will be raised before tomorrow when the piece will be knocked off to the highest bidder.

$150 is the slogan.

AMUSEMENTS

One of the most important attractions of the present theatrical season at the Shubert Marat theater, Indianapolis, is the engagement of Virginia Harned next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 26, 27, 28, with a special holiday matinee Monday, and a popular matinee Wednesday. Miss Harned will proffer a new play, "The Woman he Married," by Herbert Bashford, the well known dramatist, that deals with a new phase of New York life. Competent critics declare it is better than anything Miss Harned has had since her joint starring tours with E. H. Southern not excepting "Iris" in which Charles Frohman's management she had two years of immense success in London and New York.

In "The Woman he Married" Miss Harned will again be seen as a barefoot model, as in "Tribby" the role that she originated and in which she made her first great success. She plays a highly emotional character, an actress-artist-model-wife, but there are many light scenes in which she shows new and unexpected developments of her art.

Miss Harned has enjoyed a wonderful and remarkably successful career for some years, devoting most of her time and talents to offerings made in the larger cities of the country. In fact she has almost confined her efforts to New York and London as she has enjoyed year and two year runs in the metropolis with "Iris," "Alice of Old Vincennes," "Ursula" in Anthony Hope's "The Adventures of Lady Ursula," and her "Ophelia" to Mr. Southern's "Hamlet." Other prominent plays in which she originated the leading roles were "The Love Letter," "Molly Haddon," "An Enemy to the King," and "Anna Karenina."

"The Woman he Married" is a vehicle of today, thoroughly up-to-date and Miss Harned takes advantage of the many opportunities it offers.

President of the University of Chicago Hears From John D.

KIDNAPPERS' QUEEN
CONVICTED BY JURYMarie Rappa Faces Possible
Sentence of Fifty Years.

New York, Dec. 21.—Alleged queen of the kidnapping band which was rounded up in a raid on the headquarters of the "kidnappers' trust" at 330 East Sixty-third street, Marie Rappa, was found guilty and was remanded to jail by Judge Fawcett for sentence on Dec. 27. The maximum penalty is fifty years, the minimum is five.

Judge Fawcett said that the verdict would be far-reaching in its effects and that it was the severest blow dealt the Black Hand since he had been on the bench. The jury was out fifteen minutes.

Mrs. Rappa admitted that Joseph Longo, with whose abduction she is charged, had been in her home. She claimed, however, that she was a tool of her husband and did not know the child had been stolen.

"My husband brought the boy to me," she testified, "and told me that he was the son of a friend of his. This man was going away and my husband said he was being paid $2 a week to keep the boy."

In opening the trial District Attorney Clarke, who conducted the prosecution in person, described the Rappa woman as the "queen of the kidnapers," and declared that she, with a man who is now being sought by the police, was the "brains of the gang."

"This woman," he said, "was the prime cog in the great kidnapping wheel. Without her brains the gang could not have existed. She attended to all the minor details and saw that the kidnapped children, once in the power of the gang, were well guarded. She is undoubtedly the queen of one of the worst gangs of kidnapers known in criminal history in this country."

Released on Bail.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Judge W. H. Seaman issued a writ of supersedeas for Mrs. Aileen Christopher, the government's chief witness against the brick trust, who was serving a thirty-day sentence in the county jail for contempt of court. Her bond was fixed at $1,000 and she was released.

Entirely Without Foundation.

San Salvador, Dec. 21.—The report emanating from Port Limon, Costa Rica, that as a result of a terrific earthquake an island in the Ilopango lagoon, in the interior of Salvador, had disappeared, causing the drowning of many women and children, is entirely without foundation.

PERILS OF THE SEA
HERE EXEMPLIFIEDThrilling Experience of the Crew of the Schooner Doris.

Pensacola, Dec. 21.—The American schooner Doris lies at anchor off Puerto Cortez, Honduras, where she was towed by the United States cruiser Tacoma some days ago, dismasted and her crew shadows of their former selves because of hardships they have undergone. News of the wreck reached here in the shape of a wireless report sent to the owners of the schooners by the first mate, now in command.

The Doris sailed from the port of Belize with a cargo of lumber. When she was not far from the mouth of Yucatan channel, without warning something struck her.

At first her men thought she had run on one of the many reefs thereabouts, but before they could act the vessel shivered again. The sea, which had been smooth, leaped into great surges and a long gray ridge piled itself upon the horizon and came tearing down on the vessel.

Green water sprang over her rail, gripping her skipper, Captain Gustav Azelson, and dragged him over the side. He was never seen again. The tidal wave was followed by a hurricane that raged for three days and tore spars and rigging from the schooner.

After the gale subsided she drifted about for several days and was finally picked up by the Tacoma.

Christmas of Excesses.

The significance of Christmas is the bringing of "peace and good will to men." No doubt it does show a feeling of good will to distribute some scores of more or less futile knick-knacks among your friends. But that this contributes to peace is a question.

To give something wholly unsuited to the tastes of your friends seems bungling and awkward, hence it is no small ordeal for the society woman to make a long series of selections, each one of which shall be felt by persons of discernment to have its own personal appropriateness.

Furthermore this involves upon all of these friends the need of making an equally well considered and suitable gift in return, thus spreading the fancied obligations of the day out in widening circles.

Christmas really tends to peace and good will among men when gifts are confined to intimate friends, and particularly to the children and those in need.

President Taft remains serene among bickering politicians and frankly discusses his views on a permanent tariff commission, the Panama canal and other measures. The chief executives of a hundred million people needs the support of those he represents in office, but this support he can not have unless his plans and purposes are thoroughly understood, and they are likely to be misunderstood if their interpretation is left to hostile critics. President Roosevelt's hold on the people and the strength of his administration was due to the frequency and skill with which he placed himself in rapport with the people.

It is pretty generally agreed by intelligent people capable of forming an unbiased judgment that President Taft desires to be the president not simply of a faction or a party, but of

For Christmas

Most people have selected their Christmas gifts that they are going to give to their relatives or friends.

But there are some that have not yet made up their minds as to what they want. To these we wish to say that we have some nice new, clean money in all denominations, in either Currency or Gold that would make a Christmas present sure to be appreciated.

Don't forget what we have said about a Savings account for the children. We pay 3 per cent interest compounded semi-annually. And furnish free a handsome steel savings bank for home use.

The Rush County National Bank

the whole people. His appointment of a Democrat and an ex-confederate as supreme justice is evidence of the president's freedom from small motives in the performance of public duty.

President Taft has not up to this time had a square deal either from the press or the politicians, especially the politicians of his own party, including the distinguished leader who is personally responsible for Mr. Taft's presence in the White House. There are many questions of a public character with which politics has no legitimate concern and among these questions are the tariff commission and the Panama canal. Upon such questions as these men in public life who desire to serve the people should take higher ground than that of partisanship or self interest. And in his attitude toward the man upon whom has fallen the vast responsibility of administering the affairs of a hundred million Americans, the citizen, no matter what his party, should rise to the same level.

Every citizen of the United States should be proud of the two princely givers—John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie—who have so far given benefactions to the stupendous amounts of $135,000,000, and $173,000,000 respectively. Mr. Rockefeller has endowed institutions and made it possible for them to work and experiment for the benefit of mankind, and the research and resultant benefits to the people in time to come, can not be calculated in dollars and cents.

Some narrow-minded people criticize these men, because business sagacity combined with good luck made it possible for them to acquire such large fortunes. These fortunes were acquired in a regular business way. It is only the envious who charge them with "sharp practice," and in most cases these same critics, if given an opportunity would outdo even the most shameless "sharp practice" manipulators.

Great scare over national defence. At the worst there is Tillman's pitchfork and Chauncey Depew's stories as deadly weapons to fall back on.

The big bucket ships east of Denver are put out of business. One can not now become a broker with only a blackboard and pint of poker chips for capital.

Oklahoma's House and Senate can't agree. If their temper is incompatible, there is always the chance of a divorce by a few months residence in Nevada.

EDITORIALETTES.

The early shopper is wearing the smile that never can be erased and there are only three more days.

Many people have already arrived at the conclusion that the Daily Republican makes an ideal Christmas present.

They say that stove peddlers always find a wide "range" of suckers.

We snatched the above cute saying from the New Castle Courier, but we can find no occasion for what they say in the next paragraph. It's well not to forget that Rome fell once.

They say that a draft for five cents is just a sample of how small they do things down at Rushville.

Figures which have been compiled show that there are seven eggs in cold storage for every person in the United States. We donate ours to charity with the understanding that they shall be eaten on Christmas day. Who's next?

Mayer Shank was duly installed in his office in the new city hall in Indianapolis today. Who's to be thanked for the heavenly bliss, Shank or the angels?

People who live in warm climes miss the joy of turning over and going to sleep on Sunday morning.

Sometimes it is possible that a large Christmas gift is accompanied by a small amount of spirit and vice versa.

And again, one-half of the world don't know New Castle's on the map. 'cause one-third of them live in China.

CHAPTER VI.

Tom's Confession.

At intervals during the day those enigmatical words of Mr. Fanshaw's recurred to the girl with the reflection that they wanted serious thinking over, at the first convenient opportunity. But the day wore away and the opportunity did not appear.

The captain of the yacht—his name was Warner—was on shore in command of the searching party, but the first officer, Mr. Scales, remained on board. He was in possession of all the data, though they had not told him the story of Philip Cayley's old relation with the murdered man.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the only party of white men that could be here would be the survivors of the Fielding expedition. We know from the news that young Mr. Fanshaw brought aboard that there is one such survivor here. If there were any considerable number of them left, able-bodied enough to walk across the glacier, we could be sure they'd be here on the shore waiting for us. We could be certain they would have made some attempt to signal us as soon as they sighted us."

"If they weren't white men but Indians—Chucotes—they'd have been quite as glad as white men to get a chance to go back with us as far as St. Michaels. And in the third place, if they were not Chucotes, but some strange, unknown, murderous band of aborigines, there wouldn't have been even one survivor of the Fielding expedition."

"Of course that's not an absolute water-tight line of reasoning, but it seems to me there is a tremendous probability that it's right, and that this flying man has lost his wits."

By four o'clock they had decided that, whether or not the sky-man's story might be true, it was high time to send a relief party ashore to find the lost ones.

At five o'clock accordingly, the relief expedition went ashore, and Tom Fanshaw and the girl were left alone on the yacht.

Two hours later, perhaps, after they had eaten the supper which Jeanne had concocted in the galley, they sat, side by side, in their comfortable deck chairs, gazing out across the ice-field. The evening was unusually mild, the thermometer showing only a degree or two below freezing, and here in the lee of the deckhouse they hardly needed their furs.

They had sat there in silence a long while. Tom's promise that they would keep a brisk lookout against a possible attack on the yacht, had passed utterly from both their minds. It was so still—so dead still; the world about them was so utterly empty as to make any thought of such an attack seem preposterous.

Finally the girl seemed to rouse herself from the train of thought that had preoccupied her mind, straightened up a little and turned for a look into her companion's face. But this little movement of her body failed to rouse him. His eyes did not turn to meet hers, but remained fixed on the far horizon.

A moment later she stretched out a hand and explored for his beneath the great white bear skin that covered him, found it and interlocked her fingers with his. At that, he pulled himself up, with a start, and abruptly withdrew his own from the contact. She colored a little, and her brows knitted in perplexity. "What an odd bear you are, Tom," she said. "What's the matter today? It's not a bit like you to sulk just because we disagree about something. We disagree all the time, but you've never been like this to me before."

"I always told you I was a sullen brute when things went wrong with me, although you never would believe it," he said. "I'm sorry."

"I don't want you to be sorry," she told him; "I just want you to be a few shades more cheerful."

He seemed not to be able to give her what she wished, however, for he lapsed again into his moody abstraction. But after a few minutes more of silence, he turned upon her with a question that astonished her. "What did you do that for, just now?"

At first she was in doubt as to what act of hers he referred to. "Do you mean my hand?" she asked, after looking at him in puzzled curiosity for a moment.

He nodded.

"Why—because I was feeling a little lonesome, I suppose, and sort of tender-hearted, and we'd been about half quarreling all day, and I didn't feel quarrelsome any more, and I thought my big brother's hand would feel—well—grateful and comforting, you know."

She was curious as to why he wanted the explanation, but she gave it to him unhesitatingly, without the faintest touch of coquetry or embarrassment.

"I can't remember back to the time," she continued, "when I didn't do things like that to you, just as you did to me, and neither of us ever wanted an explanation before. Are you trying to make up your mind to disown me, or something?"

He leaned back moodily into his chair without answering her.

After a little perplexed silence, she spoke again. "I didn't know things were going wrong with you. I didn't even suspect it until this morning, when Uncle Jerry said—"

"What!" Tom interrupted. "What does the governor know about it? What did he say?"

"Why, nothing, but that you were playing in rather hard luck, he thought, and that I was to be nice to you. Is the world going badly—really badly—really badly?"

"Yes." That curt monosyllable was evidently all the answer he meant to make. At that she gave up all attempt to console him, dropped back in her chair and cuddled a little deeper down under her bear skin, her face, three-quarters away from him, turned toward that part of the sky that was already becoming glorious with the tints of sunset.

"You've never had any doubt at all, have you, that I really deserved the job of being your big brother; that I was that quite as genuinely as if I had been born that way?"

"No," she said; "of course not, Tom, dear. What put such an idea into your head?"

He paled a little, and it was a minute or two before he could command the words he wanted, to his lips. "Because of my hopes, I suppose," he said unsteadily; "because I had hoped, absurdly enough, for the other answer. You asked as a joke a while back if I meant to disown you. Well, I do, from that relationship—because, I'm not fit for the job; because—because—I've come to love you in the other way."

She looked at him in perfectly blank astonishment. He would not meet her eyes, his own, their pupils almost parallel, gazed out, unseeing, beyond her.

Slowly her color mounted until she felt her whole face burning. "I didn't know," she said. "You shouldn't have let me go on thinking—"

"I didn't know myself until today," he interrupted her stormily; "I didn't know I knew, that is. But when I saw you put your hands on that Allain Cayley, I wanted to kill him, and in that same flash I knew why I wanted to."

Turning suddenly to look at her, he saw that she had buried her face in her hands and was crying furiously. "Oh, I am a brute," he concluded, "to have told you about it in this way."

"What does the way matter? That's not what makes it hard. It's loving you so much, the way I do, and having to hurt you. It's having to lose my brother—the only brother I ever had."

There was a long, miserable silence after that. Finally he said: "Jeanne, if you do love me as much as that—the way you do, not the way I love you, but love me any way—could you—could you—marry me just the same? I'd never have any thought in the world but of making you happy. And I'd always be there; you could count on me, you know."

"Don't!" she interrupted curtly. "Don't talk like that, Tom." She shivered, and drew away from him with a little movement somewhere near akin to disgust.

He winced at it, and reddened. Then, in a voice that sounded curiously thick to her, curiously unlike his own, he asked a question: "If I had told you all this a month ago—told you how I felt toward you, and asked you, loving me the way you do, to marry me just the same, would you?—Oh, I suppose you would have refused. But would you have shuddered and shrunk away from me—like that?"

"Did I shudder and shrink away?" she asked. "I didn't know it. I wasn't angry; I'm not now. But—just that was a terrible thing you asked of me."

"Would it have struck you as horrible," he persisted, "if I had asked it a month ago?"

"Perhaps not," she answered thoughtfully. "I've changed a good deal in the last month—since we sailed away from San Francisco and left the world behind us—our world—and came out into this great white empty one. I don't know why that is."

"I know." He was speaking with a sort of brutal intensity that startled her. "I know. It's not in the last month you've changed; it's within the last 24 hours; it's since you saw and fell in love with that murderous lying brute of a Cayley."

"I don't know," she said very quietly, "whether you're trying to kill the love I have for you—the old love—or not, Tom, but unless you're very careful, you'll succeed in doing it. I don't think I want to talk to you any more now, not even sit here beside you. I'm going to take a little walk."

He held himself rigidly until till she had disappeared round the end of the deckhouse. Then he bent over and buried his face in his hands!

What the thing was that roused him to his present surroundings he never knew. He was conscious of no sound, but suddenly he sat erect and stared about him in amazement. It had grown quite dark. It must be two or three hours since Jeanne had left the chair beside him and announced that she was going to take a little walk.

He spoke her name, not loudly at first, for he thought she must be close by. But the infinite silent spaces seemed to absorb the sound of his voice. There was no sign that any sentient thing, except his very self, had heard the words he uttered. Then he called louder.

The steps were rather difficult to negotiate, but by using both hands to supplement his one good foot, he succeeded in creeping down them, and then in making his way along the corridor to the girl's door.

He knocked faintly at first; then louder, and finally cried out her name again, this time in genuine alarm. He tried the door, found that it was not locked, and opening it and switching

HEED THE WARNING

Many Rushville People Have Done So

When the kidneys are sick they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Sick kidneys expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brick dust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequently rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only; they cure sick kidneys and rid the blood of uric poison. If you suffer from any of the above symptoms you can use no better remedy.

Rushville people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

O. P. Wellman, 122 West Third street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I was afflicted with a steady dull ache through my kidneys and my back was so lame that I could not lift. When I read that Doan's Kidney Pills were a specific for backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble, I got a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. The first few doses relieved me and it was not long before the pain in my back had entirely disappeared. I can strongly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all my sufferers."

on a light, perceived that the stateroom was empty.

He heard footsteps crossing the deck overhead. No, that could not be Jeanne; it was a heavy tread, a curious, shuffling tread.

He closed the door behind him. Then he limped slowly down the corridor toward the foot of the companionway. The heavy tread was already descending the stairs.

He turned the corner, stopped short and gasped. And that was all. There was no time even for a cry. He had caught one glimpse of a monstrous figure clad in skins, huge in bulk, hairy-faced like a gorilla.

And then, the man or beast had, with beastlike quickness, lifted his arm and struck. And Tom Fanshaw dropped down at his feet, senseless.

MRS. NINA GORE

Wife of U. S. Senator a Witness in His Behalf.

IN HUSBAND'S DEFENSE

Mrs. Thomas P. Gore Testifies in the Indian Land Inquiry.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The wife of a United States senator, Mrs. Nina Gore, testified before the special congressional committee which has been investigating Oklahoma Indian land affairs at the instance of her husband. Mrs. Gore denied that the senator had at any time accepted the proffered aid of Jacob Hamon. The latter previously had testified that he had been requested to obtain a loan of $5,000 for Senator Gore's campaign. Mrs. Gore declared that Mr. Hamon said he would be glad to help finance Senator Gore's fight, but the senator replied that he could manage his own campaign.

Christmas Gifts For Sweethearts

It is always much easier to choose an acceptable present for a woman than for a man, the needs of the sterner sex being more limited and practical utility being favored rather than mere decorativeness in all those things of which they are prepared to make use with any pretense of pleasure. The man who smokes will be genuinely pleased if some one presents him this Christmas with one of the new tobacco cases in whose silver shelter fourteen little cartridges of the fragrant and favorite weed are compactly stowed away and accompanied by a filler which, without any of the usual trouble or untidiness, adjusts the contents of the beloved pipe.

For the automobile or for the man who travels—indeed, for the smoker everywhere—this little gift is just the thing he'll want.

For the exquisite, the book lover and the traveler in one, whether man or woman, a gift par excellence would be a beautiful book rack of rare wood with much fine inlaid work, which comes from Florence. Birds and scrolls in intricate designs are deftly shown in woods of varying hues. For the man or woman bridge fiend there are bridge score pads supplied with covers of Chinese embroidery. Belt pins and buckles are welcome offerings.

If you give your best girl a pendant she will be charmed, but should you select the latest ornament from gay Paree, "la plaque," she will love you better than ever, for it's the smartest thing we've had in jewelry for many moons.

This novelty is a round medallion about the size of a silver dollar and is of platinum or silver, but never of gold. Pearls, gold or colored stones are incrustated on the surface, and delightful color combinations are secured by enamels.

The little ornament is worn around the neck suspended on a fine gold chain or a narrow velvet ribbon with jeweled slides.

All girls like dangling trinkets, and here's an invention that is both swag and convenient. It consists of a number of toilet accessories made of solid gold or silver dangling from a bracelet. In the set are included a lip salve holder, coin purse, powder box and eyebrow pencil. To these is sometimes added for the very up to date girl a cigarette case, with, of course, a tiny receptacle for matches. These sets won't do for the nervous woman, for their jangling and tinkling are very pronounced as the wearer walks.

There are years when the walking stick is not carried by men, but this is not an off season, so why not buy the man a stunning stick of meerschaum wood with the ever popular straight handle tipped with silver on which the monogram of the prospective owner is engraved?

INDIGESTION

Relief in Five Minutes and Permanent Cure or Money Back.

When Johnson's Drug Store states that he has a remedy that only costs 50 cents and is guaranteed to cure any man or woman who suffers from food fermentation, or money back, what are the poor stomach sufferers in Rushville and vicinity going to do about it?

Food fermentation causes belching, sour stomach, gas eructation, heartburn and that lump of lead feeling as you probably know.

The name of this most remarkable stomach prescription is MI-O-NA. Most people call them MI-O-NA stomach tablets because they know that there is no remedy so good for indigestion or stomach disorders. Here is one opinion: : : :

"I have been troubled with indigestion for more than a year. I bought one box of MI-O-NA and it cured me. Now I would not be without a box in the house for $500. It saves a lot of doctor bills when you can be cured for 50 cents.—Arthur Sederquist, 6 Nicholas St., Wakefield, Mass."

MI-O-NA stomach tablets cost 50 cents a box at Johnson's Drug Store and druggists everywhere and money back if they don't cure.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

GRAND ARMY IS SITTING TIGHT

Old Soldiers Resist Movement of Charities Board.

KNIGHTSTOWN ORPHANS' HOME

Suggestion to Have the Indiana Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home Opened For Other Orphans Dependant Upon State Is Not Looked Upon Favorably by Veterans—Secretary Butler Explains Board's Attitude.

Indianapolis, Dec. 21.—Although the state organization of the Indiana G. A. R. is preparing to defend the Indiana Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Knightstown against any proposed legislation which will take the control of the home from the veterans of the civil war, and especially against any move the board of state charities may make concerning the institution, Amos W. Butler, secretary of the board, declares that whatever fears the veterans may have on that score are needless.

The understanding has spread among the G. A. R. men that the board of charities plans a raid on the Knightstown institution, in order to let down the bars which now keep out of the home all but children of honorably discharged veterans, but this is denied by the board's representative.

The board now exercises such authority over the Knightstown home as it exercises over all other orphanages and similar institutions in the state, a purely advisory power. More than this, Mr. Butler declares, the state board does not ask.

Attendance Falling Off.
The daily average attendance at the Knightstown home has decreased approximately 50 per cent in recent years, and it is contended that there is a great deal of room in the institution which could be utilized for housing dependent children other than children of soldiers, pending the finding of homes, if the law were amended so they could be admitted, even temporarily. It is further suggested that children are kept in the home too long before effort is made to find suitable homes for them. This, it is understood, has long been a source of contention between the board of state charities and the board in control of the Knightstown institution.

A movement has been started among the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. forces to have introduced in the general assembly a bill providing for admission to the home of grandchildren of honorably discharged veterans when they have no means of support. It is expected that opposition will arise against the proposed measure on the ground that such children should be handled as other orphans of the state are handled.

NOTES REMAIN

Retiring Geologist Will Turn Over Fruits of Long Labor.

Indianapolis, Dec. 21.—The demand made by Edward Barrett, state geologist-elect, that Bryce Kinney, state gas supervisor, under supervision of the geologist, shall surrender his commission Jan. 1, when Mr. Barrett assumes office, although Kinney's commission has until March 11 to run, has caused considerable comment among politicians, especially in view of the custom that has prevailed. When W. S. Blatchley, state geologist and a Republican, assumed the office fifteen years ago, he found four Democrats—state gas supervisor, state gas inspector, state mine inspector and state oil inspector, all then under control of the geologist—in the office. All were armed with commissions which did not expire until March 11, following Mr. Blatchley's entrance into the office in November. The Democrats were not disturbed.

Mr. Blatchley said that when he left the office he would turn over to his successor all the field notebooks which were turned into him by the field men during his term of office. It had been understood that these books were the personal property of Mr. Blatchley and that he would retain them, but he said he did not intend to do so.

FINDS HIS JOB GONE

Gary's City Controller Was Legislated Out of Office.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 21.—The city council, believing that Mayor Thomas E. Knotts may be impeached before the winter is over, gave final reading to the ordinance abolishing the city controllership and passed the measure by a two-thirds vote. As a result the office filled by T. Joseph Dunning is legislated out of existence. With the controller out of the way the council can name the mayor's successor in case of a vacancy. If the controller were in office he would succeed the mayor.

Trains Meet at Crossing.

Linton, Ind., Dec. 21.—Two men were severely bruised and seven cars were piled in a heap here when a southbound freight on the Southern Indiana, pulling twenty cars and running at high speed, ran into a freight train on the Indianapolis Southern, which had just started across the Southern Indiana tracks.

GEN. WOOD IN NEED OF COURT MARTIAL

So Says Rogers, Sitting at No. 26 Broadway.

New York, Dec. 21.—H. H. Rogers, at his office, No. 26 Broadway, gave out an interview concerning the controversy between General Wood and President Taft. Mr. Rogers said: "If General Wood is wrong, he has committed the most serious offense an officer can in times of peace, and that is, submit a false report. Does it not therefore become Mr. Taft's absolute duty as commander-in-chief of the United States army, to prefer charges against General Wood and have him courtmartialled? Either one or the other of these gentlemen is right."

POSTAL REVENUES

In the Last Fiscal Year They Increased 10 Per Cent.

Washington, Dec. 21.—According to the annual report of the first assistant postmaster general, the number of postoffices in the country on June 30, 1910, was 59,580 and the gross postal revenues for the last fiscal year amounted to $224,128,657, an increase of $20,566,274, or 10 per cent over the preceding year. The expenditures of the department were $229,977,224, an increase of $8,978,121, or 4 per cent, the deficit being $5,848,566 as compared with $17,441,719 for the preceding year.

The first assistant repeats his recommendations made in previous reports that thirty days leave of absence with pay be allowed postoffice clerks and city letter carriers instead of the fifteen days now allowed.

IN A DEADLOCK

Railway Managers and Engineers Both Refuse to Budge.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Fear of a general strike of locomotive engineers has increased as the result of the failure of Labor Commissioner Neill's efforts to obtain a settlement of the wage problem now confronting the western railroad managers and their employees. Repeated meetings and arguments of Mr. Neill with representatives of both sides have been of no avail. Both interests refused to yield a point, and the situation is becoming tense, it is said. It is expected the meetings will be continued for several days, but little hope is entertained by either side of the settling of the differences through federal mediation.

Champ Clark's Program.

Indianapolis, Dec. 21.—Representative Korbly has arrived home to prepare for Champ Clark, prospective speaker of the next house, who will come tomorrow to deliver an address at a reception to be given in his honor by the Indiana Democratic club. On the following day Mr. Clark will address the Indiana Teachers' association. While in Indianapolis Mr. Clark will be entertained at the home of Representative Korbly. He will return to Washington to spend Christmas with his family.

Hollander Brought Back.

New York, Dec. 21.—Captured in Italy after a long pursuit, Alexander Hollander, a customs broker, has been brought back to New York and will be arraigned on charges of forgery and fraud, having been indicted last January. He is accused of altering consular certificates on certain imports, thereby making large profits by pocketing the difference of the actual and fraudulent prices of the goods.

Mexican Bandits Captured.

Puebla, Mexico, Dec. 21.—The local authorities have been notified of the murder of Manuel Vargas, a wealthy land owner of Acojeto, by bandits. The bandits then bound the women and servants and robbed the house of $3,000 in cash. Rurales went in pursuit of the brigands and captured six members of the band.

A RELIEF TRAIN WAS AMBUSHED

Rebels Prove Too Cunning For Mexican Troops.

SOLDIERS WERE OVERCOME

At Mal Paso the Troop Train Found Track Torn Up and the Sides of the Pass Lined With Insurrectos, Who Fought a Merciless Fire Into the Soldiers—Federals Unable to Make Headway in Rebellious State.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 21.—An utter failure was the Mexican government's effort to commandeer a railroad and send reinforcements into the disturbed region of western Chihuahua. The first train sent out with troops aboard was attacked and returned hauling twenty-one dead and forty-two wounded, including Colonel Guzman, the commander. Although they carried mountain guns with them, the troops were unable to use them. They were ambushed and riddled by a fire of the rebels from all sides.

The ambushade took place in a pass, Mal Paso, and the rebels simply tore up the track in front of the train and began a merciless fire into the troops when they came to a halt in the pass. The rebels were behind rocks and temporary breastworks on the two sides of the pass. The federal troops poured out of the cars and stood their ground for five hours, but had to retire. This was reported by Mexican officials as a victory, but when the train returned to Chihuahua with forty-two wounded on it, admission was made that the train ran into an ambushade and General Hernandez declared that no further efforts would be made to send reinforcements by train. The wounded victims readily told their story of the trap into which they fell.

Navarro Cooped Up.

The reinforcements were making an effort to reach General Navarro at Pedernales, who has been fighting since last Sunday with only occasional respites. The federal officers had hoped by sheer weight of numbers to force their way through the rebel infested country and then guard the track after getting it open, in which event they could easily have moved all the reinforcements to the front that they needed. Now, however, they have demonstrated that they cannot do it, and the rebels are greatly encouraged. The rebels are between General Navarro's army at Pedernales and the reinforcement base, also his base of supplies, and with the whole country in sympathy with the insurrectos, much concern is felt for the general and his command, as there has been no sleep for them since the drawn battle at Cerro Prieto a week ago last Sunday and they are out of supplies. The insurgents have harassed them almost every hour and they are said to be in a pitiable state. The relief expedition sent out several days after Navarro left Chihuahua has not been heard from.

The revolt is not viewed as a danger to the nation of Mexico as yet. It is looked upon more as a local uprising. Chihuahua has always been a rebellious state, and many incipient rebellions have been put down in the past twenty years, but the fact that Mexico is not able to put down the trouble, it is believed by many, will lead to a further organization in other states, which is just what the rebels are counting on. They say if they can hold out long enough to encourage other states, that Diaz will have to surrender.

NOBLE HEARING SET IN JANUARY

Decatur County Farm Hand Will be Tried Second Time For Murder of Albert Sprague.

HE ENTERS A PLEA OF GUILTY

In the trial calendar for the next term of court, Judge Hugh Wickens has set the case of Ben Noble, under indictment for the murder of Albert Sprague, for trial on Monday, January 9, says the Greensburg Democrat. At the last term of our court, upon a plea of guilty by Noble, Judge Hacker caused a jury to be impanelled, and the plea of guilty together with court instructions governing murder in the first degree, were submitted to the jury. After being out for several hours the jury failed to agree upon a verdict, and Noble was returned to the Marion county jail, where he has been in custody since the arrest made several days after the crime was committed. Judge Hacker then set the case for the last day of the term, but afterwards ordered the trial continued.

TURKEYS STILL CENTER OF STAGE

Competition in Buying is Strong And Price is Boosted to Fifteen Cents.

IS PAID BY THE HUCKSTERS

Turkeys are still the center of attraction in the poultry market. They proved to be plenty after the enormous receipts which were taken in during the Thanksgiving season. Competition in buying is strong and the price just recently received a boost by which the farmer can sell his turkeys at his door for fifteen cents a pound. Of course if they make the trouble to do their own hauling the price will be better.

The Adams Produce Company in this city has been working over time for some time in the effort to keep even with the receipts which have been pouring in. Of course the activity will cease a few days before Christmas in order to give the railroads a chance to deliver the goods to the eastern markets.

In buying for church work and other occasions where turkey is a luxury there is even a more spirited competition. Chickens will still occupy an important place on many tables whose owners do not wish to part with the amount of cold cash necessary to get a gobble. From indications it seems that there are still many turkeys in the country if they can be located before Christmas.

TAKEN TO SANITORIUM.

Jake Hammond, a prominent stock buyer and a member of the Milroy Stock company, was taken to the Sexton sanatorium this morning to undergo an operation for appendicitis. His condition is said to be very serious.

MILL GIVE PROGRAM.

The United Presbyterian Sabbath school will have a Christmas entertainment Friday night at 7 o'clock. The program is appropriate to the occasion and stereopticon views will be shown. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

NO XMAS RATES.

According to railroad officials at the Union station, Thursday, the regular two-cent rate for passengers will be charged throughout the holiday season, says the Indianapolis Sun. Formerly under the three-cent rate, a reduction to fare and one-third was made, making a two cent holiday rate. Under the two-cent rate, however, no reductions are made, the regular rate now being the same as the former holiday rate.
